WHO Europe Prison Health Research & Engagement Network

#WEPHREN

Dr. Éamonn O'Moore

National Lead for Health & Justice, PHE and Director UK CC WHO Health in Prisons Programme (WHO HIPP)

WHO Health in Prisons Programme (WHO HIPP)

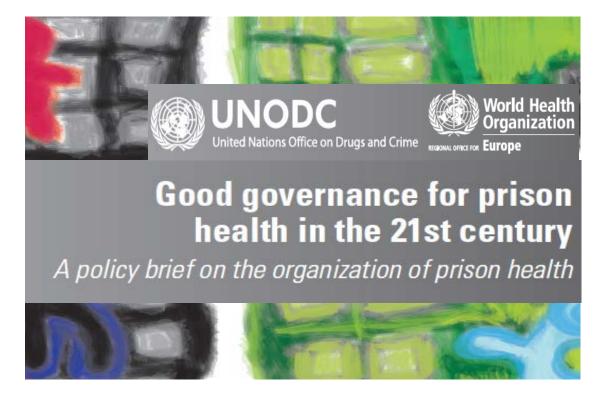

- In 1995, WHO (European Region) and the UK established a network for the exchange of experience in tackling health problems in prisons.
- From this network emerged the WHO Health in Prisons Programme (WHO HIPP), which now includes 47 member states of the 53 from the WHO EURO region.
- WHO Europe is the only WHO
  Region to have a prisons' programme so in many ways provides global leadership in the area of health & justice.

- WHO HIPP's main activity is to give technical advice to Member States on:
- a. the development of prison health systems and their links with public health systems;
- technical issues related to communicable diseases (especially HIV/AIDS, hepatitis and tuberculosis), illicit drug use (including substitution therapy and harm reduction) and mental health.

Mind the evidence gap.....

- Gaps in evidence-base to support effective, efficient, cost-effective and high quality healthcare in prisons and other justice settings.
- Active and appropriate research programmes required.
- Disparity between growth in prison health research from countries such as the USA, Canada and Australia Vs the WHO European Region.
- Variation in quality & quantity of prison health research in WHO EURO Member States.

From 'Grey to Light'.....

- Even where research is conducted, it is often 'under-powered' and/or methodologically weak and/or not published in the peer-reviewed literature resulting in results remaining in the 'grey literature'making it inaccessible to other researchers and those developing the evidence base for prison health.
- Our ambition is to bring research into the 'light' of publication and to support dissemination.

Why do research in prisons?

- To improve understanding of health needs of people in prison;
- To improve understanding of health services in prisons;
- To enable health service evaluation and support health improvement;
- To provide evidence of effectiveness to commissioners, providers and policy makers including cost-effectiveness and efficiency;
- To allow international comparisons;
- To identify and promote good practice;
- To improve quality of research outputs through improve research methodology including collaborations, national and international;
- To improve the quality of healthcare and reduce health inequalities.

A research and engagement strategy for prison health in WHO Europe Region

- Has great potential to help develop heath service provision for prisoners and to improve the health and wellbeing of prisoners
- Requires a capacity building programme to develop skills and resources in all Member States;
- An active network of collaborators to enable joint research initiatives including actively seeking funding for collaborative international programmes;
- Support to bring papers to publication in peer-reviewed journals.
- Requires support to get established, develop and grow.

WHO Europe Prison Health Research and Engagement Network

WEPHREN is providing

A forum for all stakeholders interested in prison health across the European Region to exchange ideas and to work together;

A forum for researchers to develop collaborative multi-centre research proposals across the Region;

A means of disseminating important research findings across the Region;

A platform for developing skills of health professionals and researchers;

A vehicle to drive development of effective collaborative networks within and between Member States;

An opportunity for supported professional development of researchers, healthcare professionals and other collaborators;

An effective means of addressing inequities in research and professional development across the European Region

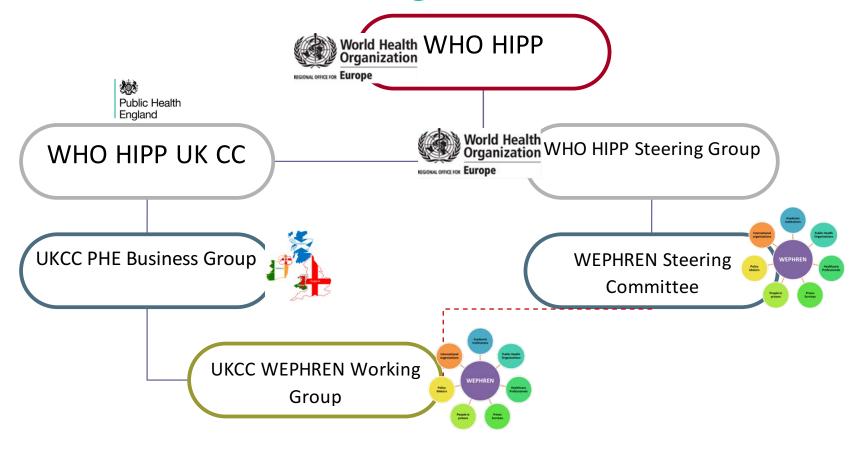

Global leadership for WHO Europe in prison research.
