Leave your ego at the door

EGO #1 : You are your culture .....& you are addicted

Working hard to do the wrong thing better

EGO #2 : It doesn't mean you are now clever

FROM THE OUTSIDE
LOOKING IN,
IT'S HARD TO UNDERSTAND.
FROM THE INSIDE
LOOKING OUT,
IT'S HARD TO EXPLAIN.

Purpose & Meaning

EGO #3 : Don't spill the oil....

EGO #4 : Don't worry.....

You aren't in charge anyway

Finding shared purpose & strengths

Karyn McCluskey

Bad systems are full of good people who want to do a better job.

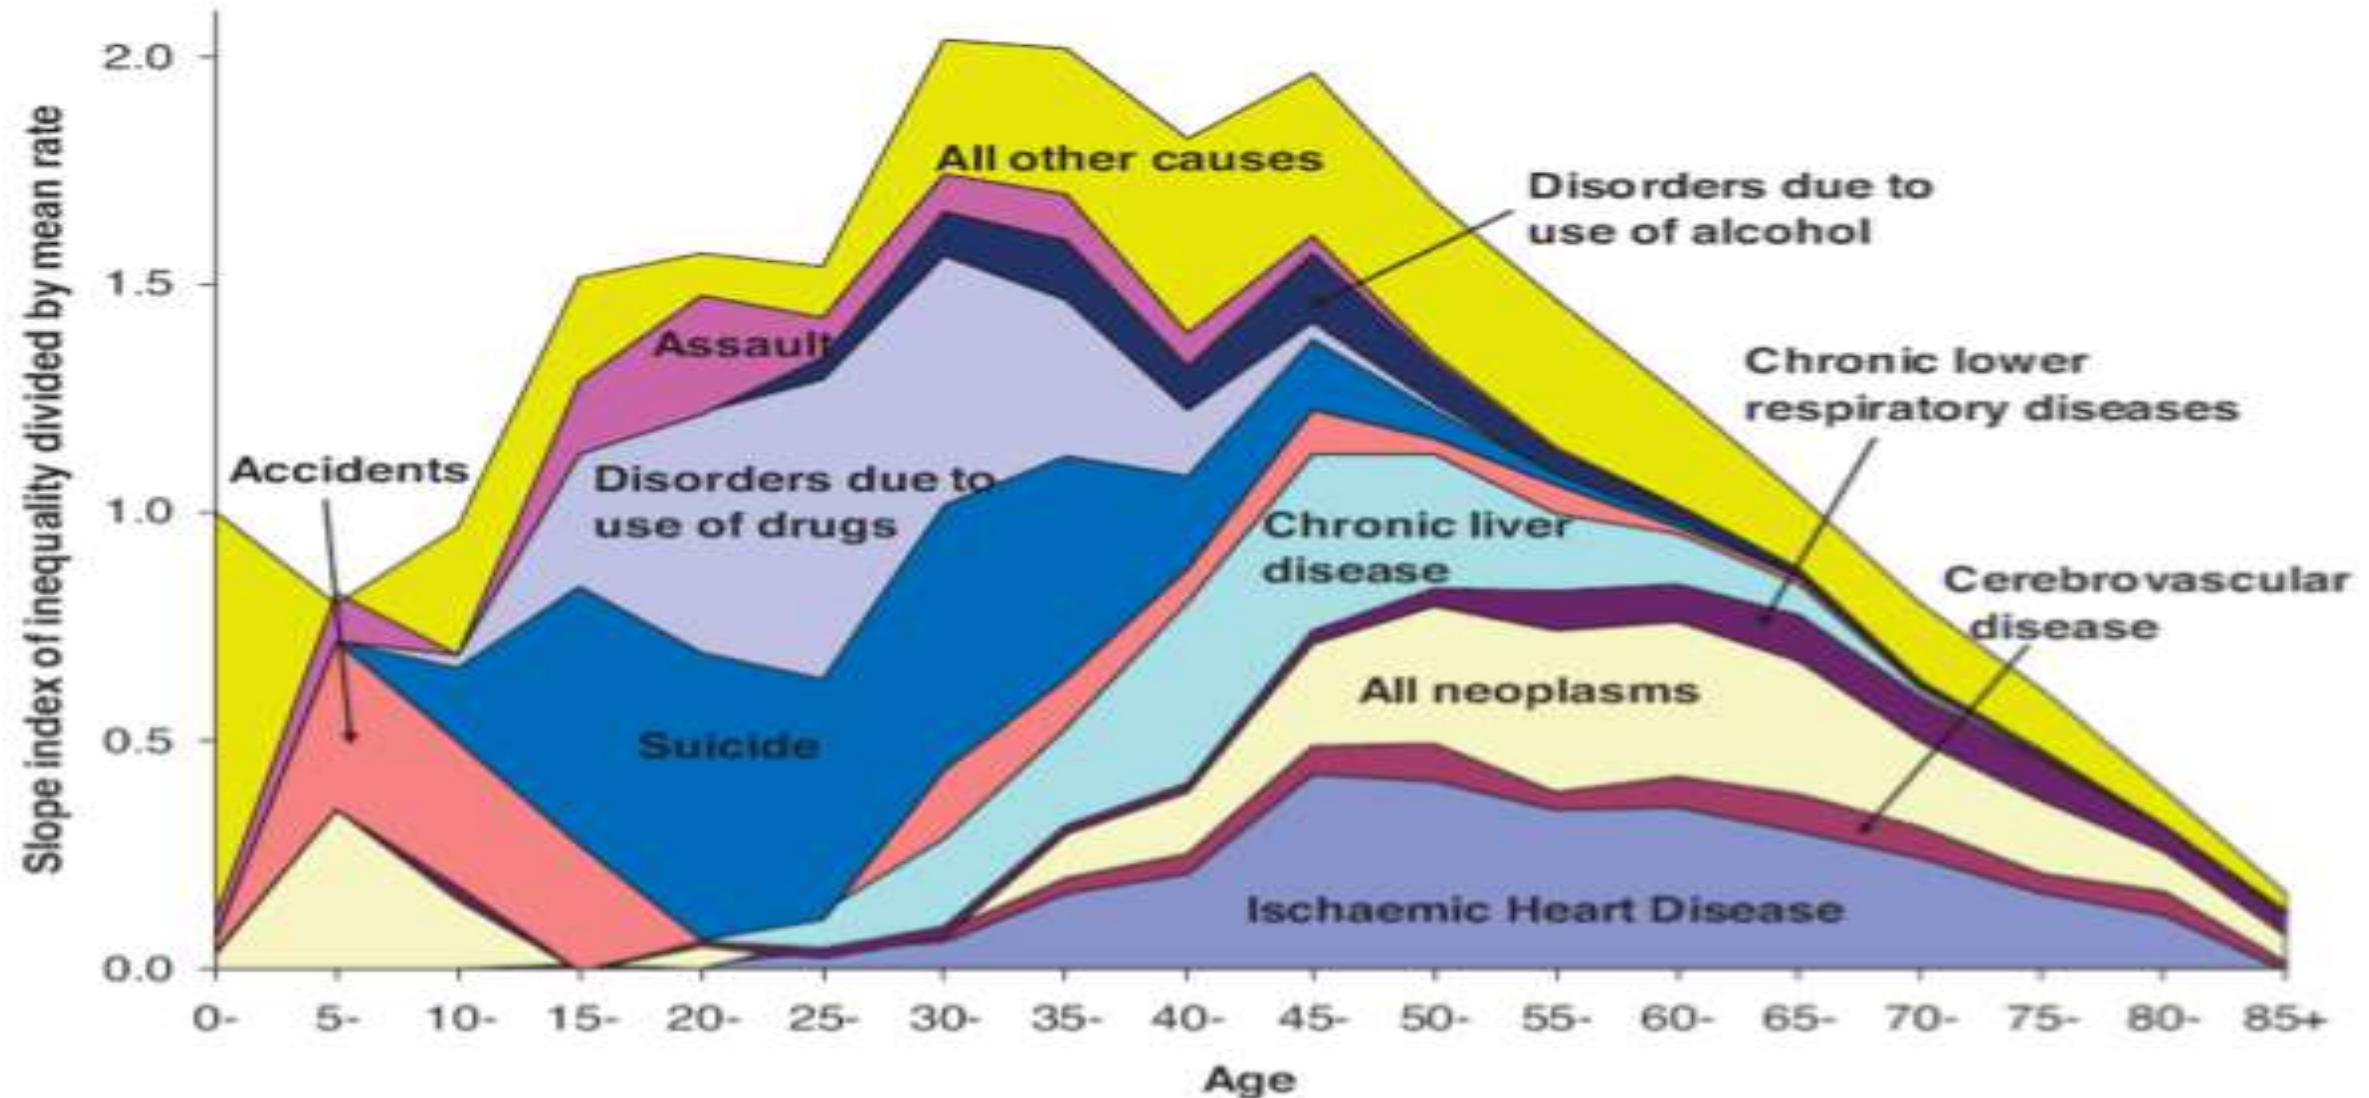

So many report...so little change.

Its not the despair I can take the despair, it's the hope I cant stand.

Risk Mitigation in Innovation

- Empathy – deep connection and understanding of the people you are trying to serve.
- Prototyping – development of solution – so ‘failure’ becomes something that is learning that’s built on quickly.
- Openness – transparency and openness allow for quick understanding of problem.

Have Faith In People

- Most people don't have faith in themselves, and believe they will fail
- Most people don't have someone who has faith in them
- Most people will do anything to live up to your faith in them

If you think you can win, you can win. Faith is necessary to victory. ~ William Hazlitt (1778 - 1830)

A thousand small sanities

Epidemics seldom end with miracle cures. Most of the time in the history of medicine, the best way to end disease was to build a better sewer and get people to wash their hands. 'Merely chipping away at the problem around the edges' is usually the very best thing to do with a problem; keep chipping away patiently and, eventually, you get to its heart. To read the literature on crime before it dropped is to see a kind of dystopian despair: we'd have to end poverty, or eradicate the ghettos, or declare war on the broken family, or the like, in order to end the crime wave. The truth is, a series of small actions and events ended up eliminating a problem that seemed to hang over everything. There was no miracle cure, just the intercession of a thousand small sanities.

What is public health?

The science and art of preventing disease, prolonging life and promoting health through organised efforts and informed choices of society, organisations, communities and individuals.

The focus of a public health intervention is to prevent and manage diseases, injuries and other health conditions through surveillance of cases and the promotion of healthy behaviours, communities and environments. Many diseases are preventable, through simple non medical methods.
